Course Summary

Description

The MA Intercultural Communication and Education course develops critical understanding of education and intercultural communication in the context of global movements of people and the internationalisation of education. The course provides students, educators, and policymakers with resources for reflecting on and responding to the growing need for intercultural education and communication in an increasingly intercultural/international world. This course is available for part-time and full-time students through the academic year.

Course structure

Core Modules

- Research Methods Education (30 credits)
- Intercultural and International Education (30 credits)
- Intercultural Communication (30 credits)
- Dissertation (60 credits).

Optional Modules

You must select 30 credits from a list of optional modules which have previously included:

- 21st Century Technology: Implications for Teaching and Learning (30 credits)
- Arts in Education (30 credits)
- Curriculum Analysis (30 credits)
- Enhancing Teaching and Learning for Productive Thought (30 credits)
- Improving Computer Education
- Policy Studies (30 credits)
- Psychology of the Learner (30 credits)
- Special Educational Needs and Inclusion: Rhetoric or Reality? (30 credits).

The above are examples of modules that we have run in previous years. Modules are continually developed in response to student feedback and interests, as well as to reflect the changing nature of academic research within the department.

You will also do a 15,000-word dissertation within the field of intercultural education and internationalisation. This is a supervised piece of work working with specialists in the field.

Department Information

School of Education

Overview

The School of Education is one of the leading departments of education in the UK. We are a large department, with around 50 academic staff, and around 650 postgraduate students (including our PGCE students, both primary and secondary). We are also supported by a large number of partners from schools and colleges. We have strong international links, welcoming students, postdoctoral fellows and visiting scholars from all over the world. We are committed to research which engages with, and has an impact upon, practice and policy as well as influencing the wider research community to develop educational practice, education policy and future educational research.

Ranking

Ranked joint 5th in the UK for World-Leading research and joint 1st for World-Leading research impact in REF 2014.
