Lived Catholicism(s): Paradox and Prophecy: Why the Study of Lived Catholicism Matters

Second Online Lived Catholicism Conference 15-16 November 2021

An online conference taking place across two days, bringing together theologians, ethnographers, anthropologists, human geographers, psychologists and ethicists among others for interdisciplinary exchange and encounter. The conference seeks to promote the notion of 'Lived Catholicism' both within the academy and in the broader Church, as experienced in homes, parishes, schools, and wider daily life.

The conference is organised by the Centre for Catholic Studies at Durham University, in conjunction with the Department of Catholic Studies at Duquesne University, and in association with The Tablet.

Day 1: Monday 15 November 14:00-19:30 GMT

Session 1: 14:00-15:20 GMT

Welcome and Introduction from Avril Baigent (Chair of Conference Organising Team) and Professor Mathew Guest (Head of Department of Theology and Religion, Durham University)

Opening Plenary

Paradox and Prophecy: Why the Study of Lived Catholicism Matters

Speaker: Professor Massimo Faggioli, Villanova University Chair: Dr Marcus Pound, Durham University

Concluding word: Professor Paul D. Murray, Dean-Director, Centre for Catholic Studies, Durham University

Session 2: 15:35-16:45 GMT

Sites of Paradox and Prophecy: Short Papers Part One

Participants are invited to select a stream to join. Comments and responses can be submitted via chat. In each stream, each 15-minute paper will follow straight on from the last, with discussion of all three papers taking place afterwards.

Stream 1	Stream 2	Stream 3	Stream 4
Catholic Women and Sexuality	Catholic Women Prophetic in Ordinary	Health	Education
Chair: Dr Anna Niedźwiedź	Chair: tbc	Chair: Dr Marcus Pound	Chair: tbc

Dr Sarah-Jane Page Aston University Dr Pam Lowe Aston University

A Qualitative Investigation into British Catholic Abortion Attitudes: Lived Religion, Nuance and Complexity

Survey research has already revealed increased liberalisation on abortion attitudes among British Catholics in recent years (e.g. Clements 2014). This project utilises a qualitative approach to investigate in more detail attitudes in the British context, drawing on in-depth interviews with both priests and parishioners. This research utilises a lived religion approach to understand the nuance and complexity of attitudes, demonstrating the importance of lived experience in influencing opinion. We will present these attitudes as a continuum, rather than a dichotomy, with a key finding that parishioners who strictly adhere to official Church teaching on abortion are in a minority.

Dr Pat Jones Durham Unversity

'Be proud to be a worker girl': The impact of YCW on working class Catholic girls in the post-war era

The dominant message given by Catholic teaching to women about their vocations has always leaned heavily into the models of marriage, motherhood and consecrated life.

Catholic women were not so easily confined to these essentialising roles as papal teaching intended. This paper examines how some young working-class Catholic girls tenaciously pursued other possibilities. The Young Christian Worker (YCW) movement took root in England and Wales before the war, but its expansion happened afterwards. Based on archive research and interviews, I show how some working-class women discovered a social and political mission through YCW.

Dr Peter Kevern Staffordshire University

Between suicide and adoration: reflections on online devotions during lockdown

There has been a significant rise in the popularity of online Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament since the closure of churches to regular worship in the early days of the Covid-19 pandemic. This appears to be a response from the faithful that expresses or salves the experience of distance and exclusion from accustomed patterns of worship with a 'socially distanced' form of devotion to the Divine Presence.

The paper begins with the assumption that this is an authentic expression of the Catholic sensus fidelium rather than a theological and devotional error. Drawing on the work of the French philosopher Jean-Luc Nancy, and particularly his account of 'The Deconstruction of Christianity', it develops a theoretically-informed analysis that has implications for our understanding of the meaning of 'Divine Presence' in the postlockdown era.

Dr Fiona Dineen Mary Immaculate College

Sites of Paradox and Prophecy: Educators, Ethos and the lived reality of the Catholic school

Catholic education in Ireland is currently undergoing a period of immense challenge and change. Recent educational discourse and policy changes, while providing positive opportunities, also create an increasingly complex operational landscape for Catholic schools. This paper will address the implications of these challenges and explore critically how educators mediate the mission and values of Catholic education into the lived reality of their school communities, drawing on the findings of recent research in this area. It will particularly focus on the evolving nature of religious education in primary schools, with specific reference to the role of the educator in terms of their religious literacy, identity and professional development.

University of Bayreuth Ms Claudia Álvarez HurtadoAndrews(www.discern.mt) Dr Matthew Pulis University of Malta Andre Zaffarese Archdiocese of MaltaGatholicism without the Catholic Church.How the Stories of Flannery O'Connor Can Heal a Divided ChurchIniversity of Malta Andre Zaffarese Archdiocese of MaltaDecidir movement in colombiaThough Flannery O'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent christians of the midcentury evangelical American South, her to the problems of the contraception in contraception is ince the offactionalism between a renewed tension between contraception sexual practices, and arenewed tension between institutional and individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) Amerman, 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Catolices por el Derecho a Decidir rowement fri fortoraception instructured individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feminist theological systems of parishes in Malta. catabicas por el presentation examines a renewed tension between on structured individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived reality of grace. This argumenta failures to attend to the actual lived reality of grace. This arguments. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ. By argainst the risk of floring individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ. By argainst the risk of legal prosection due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Gastro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective incapable of reduction theological perspectiveAndrews <b< th=""><th>MIT LUIS Bastidas</th><th>MS EVYN MCGraw</th><th>Dr Luke Bunaglar</th></b<>	MIT LUIS Bastidas	MS EVYN MCGraw	Dr Luke Bunaglar
Ms Claudia ÁlvarezHow the Stories of Flannery O'Connor Can Heal a DividedDr Matthew Pulis University of Malta Andre ZaffareseCacholicism without the Catholic Church.ChurchAndre ZaffareseThe case of Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir movement in Catholic Church'sThough Flannery O'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent Christins of the midcentury evangelicalLived Catholicism and Covid-19: Perspectives of parish priests and parish workers in MaltaRegardless of the Catholic Church's stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the reconfigured their fath without a conflict between contraception, sexual practices, and various strads of so- various tradison foot a renewed tension a renewed tension a renewed tension a liberal modernism offer to the problems of the cationalism and "modernism." Both areation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual trough the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2009, Ammerman, 2009, and eminist theological systems of lived religion (McGuire, 2009, and eminist theological systems of lived religion (McGuire, 2009, and eminist theological systems of lived religion (McGuire, 2009, and eminist the althe sever of or arishes, and the data through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2008, Ammerman, 2019). This reactiona person of Christ. person of Christ. presentation looks at five key patterns that ecationics por el the world and runs the person of Christ. prosection due to attend to the actual finding shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived experience of grace person of Christ. prosection due to aprish pressendiation. It is att	Meneses	University of St	DISCERN
HurtadoHow the Stories of Flannery O'Connor Can Heal a Divided Catholicism without the Catholic Church. The case of Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir movement in ColombiaHow the Stories of Flannery O'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent Christians of the midcentury evangelical American South, her to the problems of the contraception since the 1960s, many Catholics reconfigured their faith without a conflict Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This presentation examines a renewed tension texperience in ColombiaHow the Stories of Flannery Coronor wrote to contraception since the contraception since the contraception sexual practices, and ways of living the faith though the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feminist through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feminist flat for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosentation due to berecho a Decidir (Catholic Suport).How the Stories of the display that display theward and runs the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us or ohor chroice, parsentation looks at five experience of fraise, prosentation hooks at five resentation looks at five		Andrews	( www.discern.mt )
Boston UniversityFlannery O'Connor Can Heal a Divided ChurchAndre Zaffarese Archdiocese of MaltaCatholic Sm without the Catholic Church.Though Flannery O'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent Christians of the middentury evangelical American South, her stories are still relevant opposition to contemporary Church.Lived Catholicism and Covid-19: Perspectives of parish priests and parish workers in MaltaRegardless of the Catholic Church's opposition to contraception since the reconfigured their faith without a conflict between contraception, sexual practices, and various strands of so- tways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This resentation examines a renewed tension theological systems of and individual through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2003) and feminist theological systems of and individual theological systems of nicatolicism and theological systems of nisdicas to the actual lived reality of grace. This failures of theological systems of nicatholicism. This failures of theological systems of nicatholicism. This failures of indamental failures to theological systems of parishes, and the data workers across different parishes, and the data (Catholicism. This fundamental failures to theworld and runs the person of Christ. person of Christ. presentation looks at five key patterns that terviews and inderviews and individuals to the person of Christ. presentation looks at five key patterns that fundamental failures to person of Christ. presentation looks at five key patterns that diationalism the workers and parish workers and parish presentation looks at five key patterns that fundamental failures to person of Ch	Ms Claudia Álvarez		Dr Matthew Pulis
Can Heal a Divided ChurchArchdiocese of MaltaCatholicism without the case of Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir movement in ColombiaThough Flannery O'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent Christians of the midcentury evangelical American South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the opposition to contraception since the ifeds, many Catholics reconfigured their faith without a conflict between contraception, sexual practices, and ways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This resentation examines a renewed tension between institutional theological systems of nidividual experience in ColombiaCan Heal a Divided ChurchArchdiocese of MaltaCovid-19 parsets and parish workers in MaltaCovid-19: Perspectives of to the problems of the contemporary Church. This paper proposes factionalism between various strands of so- called "traditionalism." Both reactionary traditionalism and and individual experience in Colombia theological systems of fundamental failures to that display theological systems of nisk of blinding indviduals to the person of Christ.Archdiocese of MaltaCovid-19: Perspectives of parish priests and parish workers on the effects of the Cological systems of grace and ecclesiologi that display the word and runs the risk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ.Archdiocese of MaltaCovid-19: Perspectives of parish priests and parish priests and parish priests and parish workers across different parishes, and the data were-changing Lived catholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that the word and runs the risk of blinding in	Hurtado	How the Stories of	University of Malta
Catholicism without the Catholic Church. The case of Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir movement in ColombiaChurch Though Flannery O'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent Christians of the midcentury evangelical American South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the contraception since the contraception since the to the problems of the how her stories might how her stories might heal the ever-growing grace and ecclesiolog grace and ecclesiolog that display through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2002) and feminist theological systems of and individual theological systems of misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the presentation looks at five key patterns that tiodicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that tiodicism and individuals to the ever-changing Lived conticien, S. The stories might hereatican analysis. The findings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived catholicism. This p	Boston University	Flannery O'Connor	Andre Zaffarese the Catholic Church. The case of Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir movement in ColombiaLived Catholicism and Covid-19: Perspectives of parish priests and parish workers in MaltaRegardless of the Catholic Church's opposition to contraception since the reconfigured their faith without a conflictAmerican South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contemporary Church. This paper proposes caltadic Churchs, and "modernism." Both reactionaryCovid-19 has precipitated fundamental changes in people's experiences of Lived Catholicism(s). This presentation1960s, many Catholic reconfigured their faith without a conflict between contraception, sexual practices, and various strands of so- various strands of so- various strands of so- various strands of so- and individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feministThough Flannery OC Connor reminds und theological systems of grace and ecclesiology that displaySemi-structured interviews were conducted with 8 parish priests and 10 parish workers across different parishes, and the data workers across different parishes, and the data2020) and feminist theological systems of catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's considered a crime (Gantoile Women for Choice) movement fight for women's considered a crime (González-Vélez & Castor, 2021). Based on afeministO'Connor reminds us of who christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace grace is disorienting, grace is disorienti		Can Heal a Divided	Archdiocese of Malta
The case of Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir movement in ColombiaThough Flannery O'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent Christians of the Christians of the midcentury evangelical American South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the contraception since the contraception since the aconflict between contraception, sexual practices, and ways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, a renewed tension between institutional arenewed tension theological systems of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feminist theological systems of chadion winderstands the ways grace operates in factionalism the actual lived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in factionalism the theological systems of chadionalism theological systems of chacles apperince in Colombia through the lenses of theological systems of chacing against the risk of legal presentation tealing theology (Radford misunderstands the ways grace operates in individuals to the person of Christ.Covid-19: Perspectives covid-19 has precipitated fundamental failures to and "modernism" prists and 10 parish priests and 10 parish prists and	Catholicism without	Church por el Derecho a Decidir movement in ColonombiaO'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent Christians of the midcentury evangelical American South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the contraception, sexual practices, and ways of living the faith 2019). This resentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual experience in ColombiaO'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent American South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception, factionalism between various strands of so- various strands of so- called "traditionalism" and "modernism." Both reactionary traditionalism and and individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feminist theological systems of acatolicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Chatolic Women for Chatolicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Gastro, 2021). Based on a ferninist theological perspective through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, revealing that God's grace is disorienting,<	the Catholic Church.		Lived Catholicism and por el Derecho a Decidir movement in ColombiaO'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent Christians of the midcentury evangelical American South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the contraception since the 1960s, many Catholics reconfigured their faith without a conflicat between contraception, sexual practices, and 2019). This resentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual experience in ColombiaO'Connor wrote to rouse the complacent to the problems of the conterporay Church. This paper proposes how her stories might heal the ever-growing factionalism between various strands of so- called "traditionalism" and "modernism." Both reactionaryStudy that looked at the perspectives of parish workers on the effects of the Covid-19 pandemic on parishes in Malta.2019). This experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 20003; Ammerman, 2020) and feministIliceral modernism offer the dolgical systems of attend to the actual lived reality of grace. This failure of attention theology (Radford misunderstands the ways grace operates in doind nutvidual sto the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us or parishes index systems of adianst the risk of legal profescionalies and person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us or afeministIndividuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us o'No Christ is by identities and ecclesiologies, (b) experience of grace sportion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Grastor, 2021). Based on a ferninistO'Connor reminds us o'n theological perspective incapable of reduction individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us <td>The case of Católicas</td> <td>Though Flannery</td> <td>Covid-19: Perspectives</td>	The case of Católicas	Though Flannery	Covid-19: Perspectives
Decidir movement in Colombiarouse the complacent Christians of the midcentury evangelical 	por el Derecho a		- ColombiaChristians of the midcentury evangelical American South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the contraception since the reconfigured their faith how her stories might between contraception, sexual practices, and various strands of so- various strands of so- variet at the covid-19 pandemic on parishes in Malta. Semi-structured interviews were interviews were section (McGuire, 2009, Amerman, lived reality of grace. This failure of attention theology (Ra	• midcentury evangelical Regardless of the Catholic Church's opposition tomidcentury evangelical American South, her stories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the 1960s, many Catholics reconfigured their faith without a conflict between contraception, factionalism between passentation examines are renewed tension through the lenses of liberal modernism." Both areactionaryCovid-19 has precipitated fundamental changes in presentation2019). This presentation examines are renewed tension liberd modernism." Both experience in ColombiaThis paper proposes factionalism between contraception, factionalism between and "modernism." Both areactionarystudy that looked at the workers on the effects of workers on the effects of workers on the effects of interviews were conducted with 8 parish workers across different prisets and 10 parish workers across different prisets and 10 parish workers across different prisets and 10 parish workers across different prisets and the data were analysed using through the lenses of fundamental failures to theological systems of fundamental failures to thealty of grace.Semi-structured interviews were catholicism. This failure of attention dynamics involved in an theology (Radford misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the presentation looks at five the world and runs the presentation looks at five the world and runs the presentation looks at five the world and runs the presentation being trak of blinding trak of blinding trak of blinding trak of blinding trak of blinding theological perspective professionalisation. It is and individual to the experience of grace theological perspectiv Regardless of the Catholic Church's opposition to to the problems of the contraception since the contemporary Church.fundamental changes in people's experiences of Lived Catholicism(s). concerns a qualitative study that looked at the perspectives of parish presentation examines are renewed tension through the lenses of through the stories, root of Christ. Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement person due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & González-Vélez & Grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a ferminist theologicalAmerican South, her subersive, and theological theological the workers and theological the struggle is rootedAmerican South, her the struggle is rootedRegardless of through her stories, recosiding (González-Vélez & González-Vélez & theologicalAmerican South, her theological theologicalFundamental changes in theological theological<	Coloniala		Covid-19 has precipitated Catholic Church's opposition tostories are still relevant to the problems of the contraception since the contraception since the iscontraception since the contraception since the contraception since the iscontraception since the contraception since the contraception since the contraception since the contraception since the contraception to contraception, sexual practices, and ways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This reactionary resentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual through the lenses of fundamental failures to and individual through the lenses of fundamental failures to attend to the actual through the lenses of fundamental failures to attend to the actual theological systems of the colesiology workers across different parishes, and the data workers across different parishes, and the data workers across different parishes, and the data worker analysed using theological systems of theological systems of theological systems of the data through the lenses of fundamental failures to attend to the actual theology (Radford misunderstands the Derecho a Decidir risk of blinding reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution being considered a crime (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based gratitious, often theological perspective incapable of reduction theological perspective incapable of reduction the atheological the workid and runs the professionalisation. It is angued that an understanding of the subversive, and argued that an understanding of the subversive, and against the risk of legal individus to the considered a crime considered a crime considered a crime considered a crime conside	Regardless of the opposition to contraception since the 1960s, many Catholics reconfigured their faith without a conflictto the problems of the contemporary Church. This paper proposes how her stories might heal the ever-growing prests and parish perspectives of parish perspectives of parish priests and parish workers on the effects of the Covid-19 pandemic on parishes in Malta.2019). This presentation examines a renewed tension through the lenses of and individual through the lenses of through the lenses of through the lenses of theological systems of and individualcalled "traditionalism" and "modernism." Both reactionary grace and ecclesiologyon parishes in Malta. Semi-structured interviews were conducted with 8 parish priests and 10 parish workers across different parishes, and the data through the lenses of fundamental failures to that display2008; Ammerman, theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The toatolicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's erproductive rights and against the risk of legal through he risk of legal through he risk of legal through he risk of legal through her stories, reproductive rights and against the risk of legal through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based graticibanes for the considered a crime (González-Vélez & grate is stories, and theologicalto the apole of reduction through her stories, recond the to aparish professionalisation. It is and individuals to the experience of grace through her stories, recond che to aparish professionalisation. It is and individuals to the experience of grace through her stories, reconsidered a crime (González	-	-	• contraception since the 1960s, many Catholicscontemporary Church. This paper proposes how her stories might heal the ever-growing factionalism between contraception, sexual practices, and ways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This presentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Cattolic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and gaanst the risk of legal prosection being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Castro, 2021). Based on a feministcontemporary Church. This paper proposes how her stories might heal the ever-growing factionalism and indorenism." Both reactionary traditionalism and grace and ecclesiology that display fundamental failures to attend to the actual lived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the preson of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Gastro, 2021). Based on a feministcontemporary Church. This paper proposes traditionalism and fundamental failures to attend to the actual tived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the presentation looks at five person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and considered a crime (gonzález-Vélez & grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and theological perspective thei 1960s, many Catholics reconfigured their faith without a conflict between contraception, sexual practices, and various strands of so- called "traditionalism" (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This resentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2008; Ammerman, 2000) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Cattolicas por el catolicas por el the world and runs the Derecho a Decidir (Gatholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's considered a crime (González-Vélez & Castro, 2021). Based grace in cological perspective incapable of reduction theological perspective individuals to the person of Christ. of who Christ is by identities and grace is discrienting, grace is discrienting, revealing that God's grace is discrienting, grace is discrienting, through her stories, revealing that God's grace is discrienting, grace			. , reconfigured their faith without a conflicthow her stories might heal the ever-growing factionalism between various strands of so- various strands of so- called "traditionalism" and "modernism." Both reactionary presentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2008; Ammerman, 2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feminist theological systems of attend to the actual theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The ways grace operates in Catfolicas por el the world and runs the Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, castro, 2021). Based grace is disorienting, castro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective individuals to the prosecution due to against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, grace without a conflict between contraception, sexual practices, and ways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This presentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual experience in Colombia though the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2002) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Catolic women's Catolic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's (González-Vélez & Grazia prespective that isplayheal the ever-growing factionalism between traditionalism and "modernism." Both reactionary traditionalism and interviews were traditionalism and grace and ecclesiology that displayperspectives of parish workers on the effects of the Covid-19 pandemic on parishes in Malta.2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Ganbic Women for Choice) movements (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective incapable of reduction their struggle is rootedheal the ever-growing traditionalism between various strands of so- catholic sported incapable of reduction the world and runs the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by identities and identities and ecclesiologies, (b) ecclesiologies, (b) ecclesiologies, (b) ecclesiologies, (b) ecclesiologies, (b) ecclesionalisation. It is and effection through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, parish castro, 2021). Based incapable of reduction their struggle is rootedheal the ever-growing traditionalism and through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, parishpressinalisation. It is argued that an between contraception, sexual practices, and ways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). Thisfactionalism between various strands of so- called "traditionalism" and "modernism." Both reactionarypriests and parish workers on the effects of the Covid-19 pandemic on parishes in Malta.2019). ThisreactionarySemi-structuredpresentation examinestraditionalism and theological systems of grace and ecclesiologyinterviews werea renewed tensionliberal modernism offer theological systems of grace and ecclesiologyconducted with 8 parish priests and 10 parishand individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feministfundamental failures to this failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the person of Christ.workers across priests and 10 parish workers across different parishes, and the data(Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women'sThis failure of attention individuals to the person of Christ.presentation looks at five key patterns that(González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feministof who Christ is by identities and experience of grace grace is disorienting, parishscaraments, and (e) parish(González-Vélez & (González Prélez & (González Prélez & (Ganzález Prélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feministgrace is disorienting, parishparish parishtheological perspective their struggle is rootedto a theologicalparish theologicalspriests a			, sexual practices, and ways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This presentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individual experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to against the risk of legal prosecution being considered a crime (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (Catholicical perspective (Catholicical perspective ther struggle is rooted)various strands of so- called "traditionalism" and "modernism." Both reactionary traditionalism and grace and ecclesiology that display that display the world and runs the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by identities and experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feministvarious strands of so- context and the data through her stories, grace is disorienting, parish parishes and (e) parish parishes involved in an experience of reduction through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, parishworkers on the effects of the could and runs the presentation looks at five key patterns that ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Scaraments, and (e) parishtheological perspective their struggle is rootedincapable ways of living the faith (Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). Thiscalled "traditionalism" and "modernism." Both reactionarythe Covid-19 pandemic on parishes in Malta.2019). ThisreactionarySemi-structured interviews werea renewed tensionliberal modernism offer theological systems of grace and ecclesiologyconducted with 8 parish priests and 10 parishbetween institutional and individualgrace and ecclesiology that displayworkers across different parishes, and the dataexperience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, attend to the actualthematic analysis. The findings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feminist thelogy (Radford Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and adainst the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Gastro, 2021). Based on a feministof who Christ is by identities and erveraling that God's grace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, fight for women'sceclesiologies, (b) experience of grace grace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, theological perspective their struggle is rootedtheological traditionalism" to a theologicalthe covid-19 pandemic on a feministways grace operates in considered a crime on a feministconsidered a crime risk of blinding through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, professiona	•
(Bastidas & Beltrán, 2019). This presentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individualand "modernism." Both reactionaryon parishes in Malta. Semi-structured interviews werea renewed tension between institutional and individualliberal modernism offer theological systems of grace and ecclesiologyconducted with 8 parish priests and 10 parish workers across different parishes, and the data through the lenses of flundamental failures to that displayon parishes, and the data were analysed using that display2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's considered a crime (González-Vélez & González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based grace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, for a theological perspective their struggle is rootedand "modernism." Both reactionaryon parishes in Malta. Semi-structured interviews were(Bastidas & Beltrán, costional actionaryand individual the actual through her stories, or a feministand individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by identities and ecclesiologies, (b) ecclesiologies, (b) ecclesiologies, (b) parishgrace is disorienting, on a feministgrace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, parishparish professionalisation. It is and understanding of the through her stories, and individus, often subversive, and angued that an understanding of the through her stories, and individus, often subversive, and angued that an andiaconia, ic a parish profe 2019). ThisreactionarySemi-structuredpresentation examinestraditionalism andinterviews werea renewed tensionliberal modernism offerconducted with 8 parishbetween institutionalgrace and ecclesiologyworkers across differentand individualgrace and ecclesiologyparishes, and the dataexperience in Colombiathat displayparishes, and the datathrough the lenses offundamental failures towere analysed usinglived religion (McGuire,attend to the actualthematic analysis. The2008; Ammerman,lived reality of grace.findings shed light on the2020) and feministThis failure of attentiondynamics involved in antheology (Radfordmisunderstands theever-changing LivedRuether, 2008). Theways grace operates inCatholicism. ThisCatolicas por elthe world and runs thepresentation looks at fiveDerecho a Decidirrisk of blindingkey patterns that(Catholic Women forindividuals to theemerged acrossChoice) movementperson of Christ.participants' arguments.fight for women'sO'Connor reminds usThese concerned (a) layreproductive rights andadsortion beingthrough her stories,quasitathe risk of legalgrace is disorienting,parishgrace is disorienting,grace is disorienting,parishconsidered a crimegrace is disorienting,parish(González-Vélez &grace is disorienting,parish presentation examines a renewed tension between institutional and individualtraditionalism and liberal modernism offer theological systems of grace and ecclesiologyinterviews wereexperience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feministthat display fundamental failures to attend to the actual lived reality of grace.mere analysed using thematic analysis. The findings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Gastro, 2021). Based on a feministtraditionalism and liberal modernism offer the alter struggle is rootedinterviews were conducted with 8 parish workers across different parishes, and the data were analysed using the water analysed using the water attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the person of Christ.ever-changing Lived Catholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that emerged acrossChoice) movement grace individuals to the considered a crime (González-Vélez & on a feministof who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace grace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, parishmeeds, (d) mass and argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	• a renewed tension between institutional and individualliberal modernism offer theological systems of grace and ecclesiologyconducted with 8 parish priests and 10 parish workers across different parishes, and the dataexperience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feministfundamental failures to attend to the actual lived reality of grace.were analysed using thematic analysis. The findings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived2020) and feministThis failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in Católicas por elCatholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns thatCatholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women'sof who Christ. of who Christ is by algainst the risk of legal illustrating the lived experience of graceThese concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b)prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feministgrace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, through her stories, and incapable of reduction theological perspective their struggle is rootedgratuitous, often subversive, and argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is		-	Semi-structured between institutional and individualtheological systems of grace and ecclesiologypriests and 10 parish workers across differentexperience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feministfundamental failures to attend to the actual lived reality of grace.were analysed using thematic analysis. The findings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived2020) and feministThis failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in Católicas por elcatholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns thatCatholic Women for Choice) movement grace individuals to the against the risk of legal abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feministof who Christ is by subversive, and subversive, and subversive, and theological perspective their struggle is rootedgrace is disorienting, profescial of the subversive, and subversive, and subversive, and subversive, and subversive, and subversive, and subversive, and theological perspectivepresentation looks at five presentation looks at five presentation looks at five presentation looks at five participants' arguments.fight for women's (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (farte a crime (farte subversive, and theological perspective their struggle is rootedgrace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	•	traditionalism and	interviews were and individualgrace and ecclesiologyworkers across differentexperience in Colombiathat displayparishes, and the datathrough the lenses offundamental failures towere analysed usinglived religion (McGuire,attend to the actualthematic analysis. The2008; Ammerman,lived reality of grace.findings shed light on the2020) and feministThis failure of attentiondynamics involved in antheology (Radfordmisunderstands theever-changing LivedRuether, 2008). Theways grace operates inCatholicism. ThisCatólicas por elthe world and runs thepresentation looks at fiveberecho a Decidirrisk of blindingkey patterns that(Catholic Women forindividuals to theemerged acrossChoice) movementperson of Christ.participants' arguments.fight for women'sO'Connor reminds usThese concerned (a) layreproductive rights andof who Christ is byidentities andagainst the risk of legalillustrating the livedecclesiologies, (b)prosecution due toexperience of gracediaconia, (c) spiritualabortion beinggrace is disorienting,grace is disorienting,parishCastro, 2021). Basedgrace is disorienting,professionalisation. It ison a feministsubversive, andargued that antheological perspectiveincapable of reductionunderstanding of thetheir struggle is rootedto a theologicalshifts in these domains is	a renewed tension	liberal modernism offer	conducted with 8 parish experience in Colombia through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2008; Ammerman, 2008; Ammerman, 2000 and feministthat display fundamental failures to attend to the actual lived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (Gastro, 2021). Based on a feministthat display fundamental failures to attend to the actual misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the person of Christ. o'Connor reminds uspartishes, and the data were analysed using thematic analysis. The dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived Catholicism. Thisreproductive rights and abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (a feministof who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reduction their struggle is rootedparish theological professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	between institutional	theological systems of	priests and 10 parish through the lenses of lived religion (McGuire, 2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & Castro, 2021). Based on a feministfundamental failures to attend to the actual lived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the risk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feministwere analysed using thue world and tubes to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedwere analysed using the actual hue date theological the ways grace operates in to a theologicalwere analysed using the actual theological the attent to the actual theologicaltheological their struggle is rootedfundamental failures to attend to the actual theologicalwere analysed using the matic analysis. The fundings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived Catholicism. This professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	and individual	grace and ecclesiology	workers across different lived religion (McGuire, 2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feministattend to the actual lived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Gastro, 2021). Based on a feministattend to the actual lived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the risk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedattend to the actual lived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in to a theologicalthematic analysis. The findings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived Catholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) grace is disorienting, professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	experience in Colombia	that display	parishes, and the data
2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (Castro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedlived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the presentation looks at five key patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and considered a crime (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedlived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the prosecution due to a feministfindings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived Catholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	through the lenses of	fundamental failures to	were analysed using
2008; Ammerman, 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (Castro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedlived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the presentation looks at five key patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and considered a crime (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedlived reality of grace. This failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the prosecution due to a feministfindings shed light on the dynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived Catholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	lived religion (McGuire,	attend to the actual	thematic analysis. The 2020) and feminist theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). The Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women's against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Gastro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedThis failure of attention misunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the risk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by illustrating the lived ecclesiologies, (b) experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's gratuitous, often on a feministdynamics involved in an ever-changing Lived Catholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parish0 a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedgratuitous, often incapable of reduction to a theologicalprofessionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	2008; Ammerman,	lived reality of grace.	findings shed light on the theology (Radford Ruether, 2008). Themisunderstands the ways grace operates in the world and runs the risk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ.ever-changing Lived Catholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that(Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women'sindividuals to the person of Christ.emerged across participants' arguments.These concerned (a) lay identities and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion beingof who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feministsacraments, and (e) parishCastro, 2021). Based on a feministgratuitous, often subversive, and theological perspective to a theologicalprosecution the at heological		This failure of attention
Ruether, 2008). The Católicas por el Derecho a Decidirways grace operates in the world and runs the risk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ.Catholicism. This presentation looks at five key patterns that(Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women'sindividuals to the person of Christ.presentation looks at five key patterns thatGatiful for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion beingof who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of graceThese concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b)considered a crime (González-Vélez & on a feministrevealing that God's grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reduction their struggle is rootedgrace is disoriention professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	'
Católicas por el Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women'sthe world and runs the risk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds uspresentation looks at five key patterns that emerged across participants' arguments.fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & Gastro, 2021). Based on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedof who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reduction to a theologicalpresentation looks at five key patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b)fight for women's revealing that God's on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedgratuitous, often incapable of reduction to a theologicalprofessionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is		wavs grace operates in Derecho a Decidir (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women'srisk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, considered a crime (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & theological perspective their struggle is rootedrisk of blinding individuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace grace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, theological perspective their struggle is rootedkey patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parishDerecho a Decidir (Donzález - Vélez & theological perspective their struggle is rootedrisk of blinding incapable of reduction to a theologicalkey patterns that emerged across participants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parish			presentation looks at five (Catholic Women for Choice) movement fight for women'sindividuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds usemerged across participants' arguments.fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & grace is disorienting, Castro, 2021). Based on a feministindividuals to the person of Christ. O'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, grace is disorienting, grace is disorienting, professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	•		•
Choice) movement fight for women'sperson of Christ. O'Connor reminds usparticipants' arguments.fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion beingof who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reductionparticipants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b)prosecution due to abortion being (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & theological perspective their struggle is rootedrevealing that God's grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often incapable of reduction to a theologicalparticipants' arguments. These concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parishconsidered a crime (González-Vélez & to a theologicalgratuitous, often incapable of reduction to a theologicalparish argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is		• fight for women's reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion being (González-Vélez & (González-Vélez & theological perspective their struggle is rootedO'Connor reminds us of who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often theologicalThese concerned (a) lay identities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parish professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is			• reproductive rights and against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion beingof who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God'sidentities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parishConsidered a crime (González-Vélez & on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedof who Christ is by illustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reduction to a theologicalidentities and ecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parish professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is against the risk of legal prosecution due to abortion beingillustrating the lived experience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and theological perspective their struggle is rootedecclesiologies, (b) diaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parishconsidered a crime (González-Vélez & on a feminist theological perspective their struggle is rootedgrace is disorienting, gratuitous, often incapable of reduction to a theologicalprofessionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	• prosecution due to abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & on a feministexperience of grace through her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reduction their struggle is rooteddiaconia, (c) spiritual needs, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parish professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is		3 abortion being considered a crime (González-Vélez & on a feministthrough her stories, revealing that God's grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reductionneeds, (d) mass and Sacraments, and (e) parish professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	•	• considered a crime (González-Vélez & Castro, 2021). Based on a feministrevealing that God's grace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reduction their struggle is rootedSacraments, and (e) parish professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	•
(González-Vélez & Castro, 2021). Based on a feministgrace is disorienting, gratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reduction to a theologicalparish professionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is	- Castro, 2021). Based on a feministgratuitous, often subversive, and incapable of reduction to a theologicalprofessionalisation. It is argued that an understanding of the shifts in these domains is		• on a feministsubversive, andargued that antheological perspectiveincapable of reductionunderstanding of thetheir struggle is rootedto a theologicalshifts in these domains is theological perspective their struggle is rootedincapable of reduction to a theologicalunderstanding of the shifts in these domains is		•	•
their struggle is rooted to a theological shifts in these domains is			• 55	• • •		•
in religious principles ["system." This paper [inseparable from an		•
	in religious principles	"system." This paper	inseparable from an

Ms Evyn McGraw

Dr Luke Buhagiar

Mr Luis Bastidas

Drs Isaak Deman KU Leuven / Australian Catholic University

Lived Catholicism through Catholic Education? Pre-Conciliar Expectations among the European Bishops as reflected in the Vota

It is well-known that the Catholic Church emphasizes the need for Catholic education to uphold and pass on dogmatic truth-claims and a social teaching that co-aligns with the Church's vision for the world. In the wake of Vatican II, Gravissimum Educationis (GE) touched upon this issue but it did not receive much attention in contrast to other conciliar documents. Moreover, it garnered mixed responses. But rather than looking at GE or its reception, this paper investigates how European bishops (possibly the UK included) envisioned Catholic education prior to the Council, namely, in the Vota Antepraeparatoria. Employing comparative analyses, this paper explores how these expectations about Catholic education informs the conceptual framework of lived Catholicism.

acknowledging women's dignity and agency over their bodies and life projects. With this case we look for answers to the question of how, while the influence of the church seems weaker, Catholic religiosity finds ways to retain their force in people's lives. Even if this entails incorporating moral issues once considered undoubtably immoral.	pays special attention to O'Connor's story "The Temple of the Holy Ghost" to illustrate the disruptive reality of grace.	understanding of Lived Catholicism as a whole.
Ms Eline Huygens Ghent University Gender, relationships, and sexuality. An empirical study on the lived experiences of young Catholic women. My PhD project is situated in the interdisciplinary study of gender and religion, and takes the lives of young Roman Catholic women who are active in the Church in Belgium as a starting point in order to examine how religiosity is constructed and performed. I investigate how these women navigate between religious traditions and prescriptions on the one hand, and secular society on the other. In	Dr Terry Tastard Cadbury Centre for Public Understanding of Religion, Birmingham University Florence Nightingale's Love- Hate Relationship with the Catholic Church Before the Crimean War catapulted her to fame, Florence Nightingale was fascinated with the Catholic Church. The nursing work of women's apostolic congregations seemed to offer her agency and fulfilment. After the war her feelings changed. At Scutari and Balaclava Nightingale had clashed with the Irish superior of the Sisters of Mercy. In correspondence and	Prof. Daryl Higgins Australian Catholic University Designing a new safeguarding system for Catholic Church entities in Australia The Institute of Child Protection Studies at Australian Catholic University was asked by the Australian Episcopal Conference of the Roman Catholic Church, together with Catholic Religious Australia to review the needs of the Catholic Church in Australia regarding the safeguarding of children, young people and vulnerable persons. We undertook a mapping exercise and designed a national safeguarding operational model for the project. We reviewed existing safeguarding	Dr Damian Costello NAIITS: An Indigenous Learning Community Innovation from the Periphery: Lessons from Black Elk and the Indigenous Catechetical Tradition in the Context of Antique Ministerium In Antiquum Ministerium, Pope Francis restored the lay ministry of catechist. This paper explores how Francis is following the 500-year witness of lived Indigenous Catholicism. Through the lives of Nicholas Black Elk and other Indigenous catechists, we will examine how Indigenous Catholics expanded the scope of lay leadership within the Church by adopting on the one hand emphases from doing so, I seek to explore how religious beliefs and teachings inform their interpretations, experiences, and	public testimony after the war Nightingale was negative about religious sisters and the Irish, part of a broader antipathy	regulatory obligations and the needs, opportunities and challenges in providing safeguarding services within the Church. While	evangelical forms of Protestantism, such as lay bible study and revival-type gatherings, and on the other Indigenous wisdom and practices pertaining to	towards the Catholic	many Catholic Entities	practices deemed by femininity, intimate	Church. This was	had developed systems	non-Indigenous to be relationships and	mitigated by her	and processes designed	outside the scope of sexuality. Based upon	friendship with another	to prevent and respond	Catholic faith, particularly ethnographic research,	superior of Sisters of	to abuse, there was a	healing work and sacred inspired by a lived	Mercy who had nursed	need for more targeted	relationality with the non-religion approach, I	in the war, Mary Clare	guidance and support to	human world. Indigenous show how these young	Moore, who	ensure a consistent	catechists forged an women inhabit both	encouraged	approach to the	innovative role that Catholic and secular	Nightingale to read a	prevention of—and	scrambled traditional ethics, and how both	range of mystical	response to—abuse. The	Catholic understandings Catholic and secular	writers. However,	design of the national	of ministry while discourses are enacted	Nightingale's	safeguarding operational	remaining firmly within in their lives.	interpretation of	model was informed by	the Church. From this mysticism was closer to the Unitarianism of her ancestors in its emphasis on human willpower, and far from a conventional Catholic understanding Even so, her study of the mystics also shows an enduring ambivalence towards Catholicism.	stakeholder consultations and an analysis of the recommendations of the Australian Government's 2013 Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse. The proposed operational model was for the establishment of a new national office to oversee and coordinate the consistency, quality, efficacy and coverage of safeguarding and professional standard services across the Church. The proposed model was accepted and is now being implemented. Its role is to equip and support Church Authorities to continue their safeguarding journey and drive culture change within their members/entities.	perspective, Antiquum Ministerium represents a form of reverse evangelization, whereby the lived Catholicism from the periphery influences a Church in need of renewal.

Session 3: 17:00-18:00 GMT

Lived Catholicism in Postsecular Society

Speaker: Dr Michele Dillon, University of New Hampshire

Followed by questions and responses submitted via chat.

Session 4: 18:30-19:30 GMT

Pop-Up Podium

Two streams of poster presentations. Participants are invited to select a stream to join. In each stream, the 5-minute poster presentations will be shown consecutively and then there will be time for discussion. Comments and responses can be submitted via chat.

	Chair: Avril Baigent	Learning and Living Synodality Chair: Prof Paul D. Murray
1	Dr. Kathryn Lamontagne Boston University	Prof Paul D. Murray Durham University
	Gender, Faith, and Class: Lived Catholicism in Massachusetts, 1950-1955	Introduction: Synodality and Lived Catholicism
	My new research on lay Catholic women seeks to investigate the Lived Catholicism of lay women in the Flint neighborhood of Fall River, Massachusetts in the early 1950s - through the lens of ethnicity and class. I am making use of the collection of Sarah Croskery Pelletier's recently discovered daily letters and ephemera, which provide valuable insights into the vibrant Lived Catholicism of a first-generation, working class Northern Irish-American in New England.
2	Mrs Anne Marie O'Riordan Margaret Beaufort Institute of Theology	Mr Raphael Yabut Boston College
	Capturing Voices – A Theological Listening Ethic	Learning With One Another: Lived Pedagogies in Grassroots Church Communities
	In my last pop-up presentation, I introduced the research I had begun to embark on, which is the exploration of RC women chaplains' understanding of self and God within ministerial practice. I ended my	The practices and stories of basic ecclesial communities in the Philippines present an implicit pedagogy where members learn with one another for social justice in their presentation by saying that what I would need to address next was how to capture their voices. I would like to consider this methodological aim and suggest that in order to capture the voice of the other, it is equally necessary to be able to listen well. Therefore, for this presentation I will present a flavour of a theological listening ethic I have begun to develop, which draws upon the Ignatian tradition, as one way of hearing not only the voices of my research participants, but also God's voice as well as my own.	neighborhoods in the context of the current war on drugs. This pedagogy embodies a synodal religious education that listens to the sense of faith of the members in their everyday lives, involves all in participation and consultation, and promotes transformative learning for social change. Using both participatory action research and ethnographic research methods, my study attempts to flesh out this pedagogy further. What this process shows is a more co- constructive way of studying lived Catholicism: aiming to describe what is already happening on the ground and, together with the community, imagine ways moving forward as a church.

3	Mr Jake Grefenstette University of Cambridge	Dr Pat Jones Durham University
	Lived Catholicism and Catholic Poetry: A Case Study in Gerard Manley Hopkins What does Lived Catholicism have to say to	The Goad of the Promised Future: Reflections on 40 Years of Consulting the Baptised from the Liverpool 1980 Congress Onwards
	the interdisciplinary study of theology and literature? This paper explores possible approaches through a case study of Gerard Manley Hopkins's 'I wake and feel the fell of dark, not day.' My five-minute paper surveys the history of responses to what William Empson identifies as the problem of paradox (or 'seventh-type ambiguity') in the poem. I will focus specifically on the ways in which the challenging metaphor of 'dead letters' has been read in light of the Jesuit's lived experience of the priesthood.	The Synodal process now initiated by Francis is not the first church-wide process of listening that has taken place in this local Church. For 40 years since the Council, hopes have been raised and often lost as diocesan and national level events and processes have tried to engage all the baptised in what we can now recognise as synodal experiments. I will briefly explore what we can learn from this lived experience to identify pitfalls, risks and potential as we seek to inhabit a newly enriched understanding of synodality.
4	Ms Allison Guerrette Duquesne University	Mr Christopher Lamb The Tablet and Durham University
	It is the Spirit Who gives Life: Living Catholicism Boldly and Dynamically	Reshaping the Centre: A Synodal Rome?
	Understanding the Church Past allows us to more authentically be the Church Present and Future. For my pop-up podium, I will look back to the lived faith of the Apostles and examine how such a model—one of community living and radical openness to the Holy Spirit—builds and strengthens the Body of Christ. My research will explore how these two aspects of Catholic life affect both the	This reflection will look at whether the Pope's synodal reforms are shaping the culture and practice of the Roman Curia, with a particular focus on the Synod of Bishops' office and the launch of the global synod process in the Vatican last month. I will examine some of the resistance to Francis' reforms and argue that the 2023 synod requires both a clear sense of direction from head office along and a study and practice of Lived Catholicism. My analysis will begin by looking to the history of the Catholic Charismatic Renewal in the U.S.—which started with Duquesne University students in 1967—as well as the present revival of the Spirit on the campus and its effect on students and faculty. The study of Lived Catholicism reveals the charismatic beginnings of the Church, opening hearts and minds to the transformative power of the Holy Spirit—Who is just as present in this age.	willingness to be transformed by the experience of the local churches.

5	Mr Bartosz Arkuszewski Jagiellonian University, Museum of Krakow The Material Medium of Healing. Case study of the oil in the worship of Saint Charbel in Krakow (Poland) Monthly devotions to Saint Charbel in Krakow (Poland) have been gathering devotees of this saint for 10 years. One of important elements of the cult is the oil of Saint Charbel. According to worshipers the oil of Saint Charbel heals diseases of the body, mind and soul. There are a lot of testimonies of healings by the oil of Saint Charbel. The oil of Saint Charbel is a valuable item. The faithful try to get the oil of Saint Charbel at devotions and communicate the oil to each other. Followers also form a network to distribution of the oil of Saint Charbel. In the opinion of faithful the oil of Saint Charbel becomes a material medium of healing. Through this oil worshipers religiously experience their sufferings, diseases and healings.	Prof. Peter McGrail Liverpool Hope University Is Anything Off the Synodal Agenda? The recent Liverpool synodal process offered people the opportunity to raise their hopes, concerns and aspirations for the future direction of the Archdiocese. Included in the responses were issues and proposals that lie beyond the canonical remit of a diocesan synod. In this paper I shall examine some of these voices, and ask what lessons we might take from listening to them.
6	<ul> <li>Mrs Ma. Adeinev (Nev) Reyes-Espiritu KU Leuven</li> <li>Owning One's Faith: An Inquiry into the Practice of (Catholic) Christian Faith by Philippine Transnational Mothers</li> <li>Transnational mothering is one effect of labor migration as experienced by many Philippine women. In an ongoing study involving Philippine transnational mothers, (Catholic) Christian faith appears to be a significant resource that supports mothers' efforts to</li> </ul>	<ul> <li>Dr John O'Brien Durham University</li> <li>Dialogue: Easy to Say; Difficult to Do!</li> <li>The Synodal journey in Ireland will involve ongoing encounter, dialogue, and discernment - and daily conversion. One illustration of the challenge involved is the tortuous discussion from 2010-2018 between the Irish Bishops and the Association of Catholic Priests (ACP) - two committed groups, each desiring the good of the</li> </ul>

strategize to gain access to a better life for themselves and their kin. They narrate experiences of God's presence in their lives which motivate their choice to invest in faith. A significant component of this process of investing in faith is a concept I call prioritizing faith wherein mothers exhibit expressions of (Catholic) Christian faith that adapt to their context. For the participant mothers, prioritizing faith opens up to the possibility of negotiating with God. These processes reinforce the value of (Catholic) Christian faith to women who navigate the complexities of transnational mothering as labor migrants. This observation is based on their reports of experiencing transformation that allow them to survive, to overcome challenges, and to pursue their central aim of gaining a better life.	Church, who found encountering each other neuralgic.
Discussion	Dr Gregory Ryan Durham University Making Room and Making Sense in a Messy and Synodal Church Seen from a certain perspective, the current worldwide synodal process(es) might be considered as a giant experiment in theologically-interested Lived Catholicism. As an academic working in ecclesiology, but practicing that theology in settings of local ecumenism, parish and diocesan life, and formation for lay and ordained ministers, this synodal intersection of Lived Catholicism and systematic/fundamental theology suggests a number of questions and possibilities for present and future research. This pop-up presentation makes an initial exploration of some of these as a contribution to the specific forum on synodality, and a wider conversation on the relationship of systematic theology and Lived Catholicism.
	Discussion

Day 2: Tuesday 16 November

11:00-19:00 GMT

Session 5: 11:00-12:30 GMT

Theology and Paradoxes: Discerning Prophetic Voices in an Honest Ecclesiology for the Whole-Church

Speaker: Dr Clare Watkins, Roehampton University Chair: Gaël Pardoën, Durham University

Followed by questions and responses submitted via chat, and breakout groups.

Session 6: 13:15-14:30 GMT

Sites of Paradox and Prophecy: Short Papers Part Two

Participants are invited to select a stream to join. Comments and responses can be submitted via chat. In each stream, each 15-minute paper will follow straight on from the last, with discussion of all 3-4 papers taking place afterwards.

Stream 4	Stream 5	Stream 6	Stream 7
Paradox and Belonging	Abuse	Cross Cultural Engagements	Culture & Devotion
Chair: Mr Adrian Brooks	Chair: Dr Marcus Pound	Chair: tbc	Chair: Prof. John Eade
Mr Gaël Pardoën Durham University	Dr Matthias Dickert Comenius University Bratislava	Miss Tiffany Hunsinger University of Dayton	Dr Héctor Varela Rios Villanova University
Unsettling/ed belonging, systematic ecclesiology learning	The case of the ` Duplessis Orphans`as one of the first and neglected cases of	Pure Catholic Evangelicals: The Shaping of Modern	"Depicting heavenly reality": works of art as documents of belief

from Lived Catholicism

Developing the work of Tricia Bruce and others in the field of Parish Studies, I explore how negative theology, as well as 'dissent' as 'ecclesial principle' (Judith Gruber), can help us engage with 'lived Catholicism' theologically i.e., receptively, critically, and constructively.

I explore the transformations of lived ecclesial belonging through the mutations of the parochial system in the US, leading to what I call 'unsettling belonging'. I then argue in favour of an apophatic theology of ecclesial belonging, which is opened to the greater fluidity in which ecclesial commitment is lived out without putting Christian doctrine aside. Between affirmations and negations, it allows for the articulation of ecclesial paradoxes. Finally, an apophatic theology of belonging leaves us with a sense of frustration, even failure, and indeed unsettlement which. I argue, is necessary for thinking, and indeed living, a (preeschatological) prophetic and necessarily unsettled ecclesial belonging.

child abuse within the Catholic Church after World War Two

The Catholic Church has recently been hit by scandals of child abuse. It was countries like Australia, Germany, Ireland or the USA where lavmen and clergymen (also nuns) were accused of having misused children physically, mentally and sexually. This systematic abuse was often ignored or even tolerated by Church officials who often protected the accused rather than the victims. One of the first scandals being publicly discussed was the case of the so called `Duplessis orphans`which shocked Canada and the rest of the world in the 1940s and 1950s. However the accusations were often not followed by consequences thus hinting at the close link between church and state in the Quebec area as a Catholic stronghold within the ROC. The lecture will throw light at this specific case and tries to reflect matters of child abuse in general and within the Catholic Church in particular. It will also pose questions why the accusations were not followed by any consequences, a tendency which can still be found today.

Catholicism's Purity Culture

In this paper, I will examine the role of evangelicalism in the modern Catholic context, specifically through the lens of purity culture. I wish to convey that evangelical purity culture has influenced many young adult Catholics. This culture has evolved to include more and more evangelical vocabulary and identifiers. Are the everyday practices of Catholics within this movement beginning to look more like Evangelicals than Catholics? How can we respond as the world encounters more Catholics influenced by Evangelical texts such as John Eldridge's Wild at Heart and wearing purity rings almost as sacramentals? This paper will treat Catholic purity as intertwined with Evangelical movements and thus offer outside factors beyond current scholarships on inside Catholic influence.

That religious objects document religion is usually construed as fact. In this paper, I also confirm that fact via 'object stories' of believers, that is, the complex and diverse lived religion displayed through their relationships with religious objects. But, what is **it** that religious objects document? Since the key word is document, I begin with Maurizio Ferraris' "documentality" and its constitutive rule "Object = Inscribed Act." I also realized during the interview process that mv informants were describing and explaining beliefs in varying ways. To elucidate, I turn to David Morgan's typology of belief. Construing belief as a social act. I formulate the 'Ferraris-Morgan' constitutive rule of religious documentality: Religious Object = Inscribed Belief. My informants' witness suggest that these objects are documents of belief: belief rediscovered, belief nurtured, belief distributed, belief used. belief identified – belief 'depicted', as one informant said. Yet, how authentic are these documentalities of belief? I use Orlando O. Espín to authenticate the "sensus fidei" depicted in these religious documents. Espín will also be helpful to ascertain what is at stake, for one, the subversiveness they present to the study of lived Catholicism and to 'official' Catholicism in general.

Dr Florian Klug Julius-Maximilians- Universität Würzburg The aesthetics of the Eucharist: A paradigm for coping with ambiguity Considering the Eucharist regarding logical identity, we have to recognize a paradox. The objective surface appears as unchanged bread and wine, while the Catholic understanding perceives the Eucharist as the body and blood of Jesus Christ due to transubstantiation. Instead of adhering to current ideological fragmentations and binary conceptions, we can depict the Eucharist as a school of aesthetic understanding that makes it possible to cope with ambiguity and avoid self-enclosed understandings. By refusing to provide an absolute definition, the Eucharist provides a meeting point that brings together differing meanings and lets contradicting positions of inside and outside stay in peaceful coexistence. This paper will elaborate on how the Eucharist is still one of the key aspects of contemporary Catholicism and offers aesthetic and reflexive	Prof Lisa Lickona Saint Bernard's School of Theology and Ministry, New York Noli me tangere: The Present Crisis and the Virgin's Gaze Expanding research done for a chapter that was prepared for an upcoming monograph on the future of seminary formation in the wake of sexual abuse of women in the Church, this paper proposes to bring the trauma responses of child sexual abuse survivors as reported in their own words into dialogue with current strands of Catholic theological anthropology through an apparently unlikely concept: virginity. A consideration of the "gaze of Christ," which expresses a unitive love that seeks to grant distance and thus freedom to the other (Luigi Giussani), illumines the encounters of Christ with women in the Gospels and provides the impetus for a more profound understanding and acceptance of women who have suffered from men in the Church.	Dr Michel Chambon National University of Singapore Discussing Lived Catholicism in China: An Urgent Need for the World Church News from the Church in China often gives the impression of constant struggle and intense political oppression. Ecclesial observers and scholars regularly report on political tensions surrounding the functioning of the Church. However, realities on the ground are much more subtle and encouraging. Over the past forty years, Catholic communities have been able to renew themselves and re-establish a public presence of the Church. This paradox reveals the urgent need for a methodological and non-politicized study of lived Catholicism in China. In an age of growing tensions between the USA and China, with a systemic and large-scale conflict between the two, there is a risk to weaponize reports on Catholicism in China in order to implicitly demonize the Chinese regime and sacralize the Western liberal model.	Dr Richard Bernier Concordia University Wine and Wineskins: Contextual Theology and Lived Catholicism The field of contextual theology, as articulated by Bevans, Pears, Schreiter, and others, seeks to inform theological enquiry by attending to the social, intellectual, cultural, and political contexts of believers and theologians. In this paper, I will review a few examples of Lived Catholicism from my own Québécois and Canadian context to see how they might inspire and provoke theological insight and engagement in the spirit of contextualized theology. I will explore the lived Catholicism of a variety of communities in the Montreal area, including youth and campus ministry groups; parishes celebrating the Traditional Latin Mass, the Novus Ordo, and the Byzantine Rite; First Nations communities; and other cultural communities.

competences for upcoming issues.
Dr Claire Jenkins Margaret Beaufort Institute of Theology	Dr Colt Anderson Fordham University	Dr Bernardo Brown International Christian University (Tokyo)	Dr Anna Niedzwiedz Jagiellonian University in Krakow
Transgender and gender non-binary	Old Models and New Methods: Economics as a Resource for Understanding the	A View of Vocation Crisis from South Asia	The Power of Money in Ghanaian Catholicism gender non-binary (TGNB) young people's experiences in schools: a social ecological analysis of the literature This literature review investigates transgender and gender non-binary (TGNB) children in schools: what are their experiences; why are the plethora of TGNB 'toolkits', policies and legislation not operationalised to alleviate their systemic neglect; what are their experiences in Catholic schools (this review was facilitated by two catholic institutions); and is Bronfenbremmer's ecological framework useful in exploring their possible systemic oppression? This framework is used to structure and facilitate analysis of the salient issues contained in the literature. Results demonstrate that physical, verbal and cyber bullying is an issue which affects their mental health and educational attainment. Schools invariably adopt a reactive approach to their emergence which puts pioneer children and families under unreasonable pressure.	emergence of institutions that would conceal imperfections.		relates to spiritual meanings and ideals of "wealth" as God's blessing. This causes many tensions and brings questions about social hierarchies and dependencies within religious communities.

I evaluate the plausibility of their responses in responding to dwellers and seekers towards envisioning better lived Catholicism in an age of authenticity.
--	--	--	--

Session 7: 14:50-16:10 GMT

Liv-ing Catholicism: Potentialities and Limitations from an Anthropological Perspective

Speaker: Professor Valentina Napolitana, University of Toronto Chair: Professor Anna Rowlands, Durham University

Followed by questions and responses submitted via chat.

Session 8: 16:30-17:40 GMT

Workshop

Doing Lived Catholicism: the radical demands on scholars working in the Catholic context

Speakers:

Professor Robert Orsi, Northwestern University Professor Paul D. Murray, Durham University Dr Alana Harris, Kings College London

Session 9: 18:00-19:00 GMT

Closing Plenary

Paradox and Prophecy: Why the Study of Lived Catholicism Matters

Bringing together scholars from across the disciplines to unpack the possibilities of this emerging field.

Chair: Avril Baigent, Durham University

Followed by closing remarks.