

Transnational Russian Studies

An International Symposium

14-16 Sep 2017, Durham

Convened by Andy Byford (Durham University), Stephen Hutchings (University of Manchester) and Connor Doak (University of Bristol), the symposium opens up the geopolitical map of Russian Studies beyond Russia, in recognition that what constitutes Russian culture is thoroughly traversed by the transnational and the intercultural. The symposium foregrounds mobility and highlights processes of cultural and linguistic (mis)translation in relation to a range of artistic forms, language practices, and modes of individual and collective agency. The project will result in the handbook Transnational Russian Studies (2019), under contract with Liverpool University Press as part of its Transnational Modern Languages Series.

---

Website: <https://www.dur.ac.uk/owri/subprojects/events/trs/>

Enquiries: andy.byford@durham.ac.uk

---

OWRI

Arts & Humanities
Research Council