Mediterranean Pottery in Wessex Households (13th to 17th Centuries)

Alejandra Gutiérrez

BAR British Series 306
2000
LIST OF FIGURES

1.1 Map of the study area
1.2 "Trickle-down" effect
1.3 The Christian reconquest in Spain
1.4 Map of the Mediterranean c1500
2.1 List of pottery types considered in Chapter 2
2.2 Andalusia. Location map
2.3 Main references to Malagan lustreware and other unspecified pottery in contemporary texts
2.4 Malagan lustreware phasing
2.5 Malaga. Early lustreware, end of 13th century
2.6 Malaga. Early lustreware, 14th century
2.7 Malaga. Late lustreware, 15th century
2.8 Nasrid Kingdom. Blue and Cuerda Seca
2.9 Valencia. Location map
2.10 Testar del Molf (Paterna), Arabic-type kiln
2.11 Main forms of Valencia Green and Brown
2.12 Valencia Green and Brown phasing
2.13 Valencia Green and Brown: Classic, Developed and Schematic
2.14 Phasing of Valencia Blue
2.15 Valencia Blue: Archaic, Classic and Mature
2.16 Valencia Lustreware phasing
2.17 Valencia Lustreware: Malagan Style and Pula Type
2.18 Main forms of Classic Valencia Lustreware
2.19 Classic Valencia Lustreware
2.20 Preliminary chronology of decorative motifs for Valencia Lustreware
2.21 Late Valencian Lustreware and 17th-century Lustreware
2.22 Other pottery from the Valencian area
2.23 Valencia plain tin glazed and turquoise glazed pottery
2.24 Valencia coarsewares decorated with manganese
2.25 Valencia storage jars
2.26 Main pottery types produced in Seville and their nomenclature
2.27 Sevillian tin-glazed pottery
2.28 Seville Green on White
2.29 Seville Blue and Purple, Plain Blue and Cuerda Seca
2.30 Seville. Main forms of Plain White
2.31 Seville Lustreware, Vertical Cordons, Half-dipped White and Green, and Plain White with Green Edge
2.32 Seville Decorated Blue
2.33 Seville Linear Blue, Linear Black and Melado
2.34 Seville Ware profiles and Seville Blue-on-Blue decoration
2.35 Other types of pottery produced in the Seville area
2.36 Seville coarsewares (orzas) and Fine Whiteware
2.37 New dating of olive jars
2.38 Catalonia. Location map
2.39 Main pottery types produced in Catalonia
2.40 Catalonia Green and Brown
2.41 Lustreware from Reus
2.42 Catalonia Blue, 15th century
2.43 Catalonia Blue, end of the 16th and 17th centuries
2.44 Aragon. Location map
2.45 Evidence for pottery workshops in Zaragoza
2.46 Main pottery types produced at Teruel
2.47 Teruel Early Green and Brown
2.48 Main pottery types produced at Muel
2.49 Muel Developed Lustreware
2.50 Muel Early Blue
2.51 Portugal. Location map
2.52 Range of decoration identified on Merida-Type Ware from Portugal
2.53 Merida- Type Ware: standing costrels, bowls, lebrillos and burnished jars
2.54 Merida- Type Ware: red slipped, fluted-decorated and incised vessels
2.55 Italy. Location map
2.56 Early Sgraffito from Pisa, Savona and Genoa
2.57 Late Sgraffito, main forms and decoration
2.58 Archaic Maiolica from central Italy
2.59 Archaic Maiolica from Tuscany
2.60 Tuscan Renaissance Maiolica, main forms
2.61 Ligurian maiolica, a berettino
2.62 Marble Ware: main forms
2.63 Syrian albarelli
3.1 Main sea routes and goods traded in the Mediterranean in the 11th and 12th centuries
3.2 Main sea routes and goods traded by Mediterranean merchants between the 13th and 16th centuries
3.3 Main sea routes and goods traded by English merchants between the 15th and 17th centuries
3.4 Records of probable Mediterranean pottery containers recorded in port books as arriving at Southampton and in the brokage books as leaving the town
3.5 Probable Mediterranean pottery imported in its own right and recorded in port books and brokage books
4.1 Excavations with medieval and early modem contexts in Wessex up to 1994
4.2 Excavations with medieval and early modem contexts in Wessex and the country as a whole
4.3 Medieval and early modem monument classes excavated in Wessex
4.4 Distribution of castles within the study area, showing those which have been excavated
4.5 Castles which have yielded Mediterranean pottery
4.6 Distribution of excavated elite residences within the study area
4.7 Elite residences which have yielded Mediterranean pottery
4.8 Distribution of religious houses within the study area
4.9 Religious houses which have yielded Mediterranean pottery
4.10 Distribution of excavations in urban areas in the study area
4.11 Urban areas which have yielded Mediterranean pottery
4.12 Distribution of rural settlement excavations within the study area
4.13 Distribution of other monument classes excavated within the study area
4.14 Other monument classes which have yielded Mediterranean pottery
4.15 Publication record of all the excavations carried out in Wessex by date
4.16 Unpublished excavations in Wessex by monument type
5.1 Plan of medieval Southampton and approximate location of excavations with Mediterranean pottery
5.2 Plan of medieval Winchester showing main excavated sites which have yielded Mediterranean pottery
5.3 Plan of Poole showing main sites with imported Mediterranean pottery
5.4 Pie chart with proportions of pottery from different sources in medieva and early modem Wessex
5.5 Quantification of Mediterranean pottery in Wessex through time
5.6 Malaga Lustreware, Valencia Lustreware and Classic Valencia Blue
5.7 Merida-type standing costrel, Valencia Turquoise-glazed, Seville Green and Brown, Tunisia Green and Brown, north Italian Archaic Maiolica and lead-glazed
5.8 Distribution of major types of 13th-14th century Mediterranean pottery in Wessex
5.9 Late Malagan Lustreware, Classic and Late Valencian Lustreware and Mature Valencia Blue
5.10 Valencia coarseware, Seville-type storage jars, Early Style olive jars and Valencia/Catalonia storage jar
5.11 North Italian Archaic Maiolica, lead-glazed wares and white slip under lead glaze
5.12 North Italian sgraffito, Santa Fina style maiolica and Montelupo Polychrome
5.13 Italian/South Netherlandish Maiolica and All-Over Blue; Italian Maiolica
5.14 Distribution of major types of 14th-16th century Mediterranean pottery
5.15 Seville pottery
5.16 Seville Ware, honey-coloured lead-glazed, Fine Whiteware and olive jars
5.17 Seville Green-Glazed lebrillos
5.18 Seville olive jars
5.19 Merida-Type Ware
5.20 Portuguese Faience, Star Costrel, Catalonia Blue, Muel Blue, "Mercury Jars", Late Sgraffito and Ligurian Berettino
5.21 North Italian Marbled wares
5.22 Distribution of 16th-17th century Mediterranean pottery
5.23 Distribution of Mediterranean finewares by date across a range of monument classes in Wessex
5.24 Breakdown of Malagan, Valencian, Catalonia, Muel and Italian finewares by period and main monument class in Wessex
5.25 Distribution of Mediterranean coarsewares by date across a range of monument classes in Wessex
5.26 Distribution of pottery forms
6.1 A selection of prices for English earthenware
6.2 Prices of Mediterranean pottery as recorded in port books from London and Southampton during the 14th and 15th centuries
6.3 Pages from the Hours of the Virgin in the Books of Hours for Engelbert of Nassau, c.1477-1490
6.4 The Last Supper, by Jaime Ferrer, first third of the 15th century
6.5 The Annunciation, by Robert Campin, early 15th century
6.6 Crying over the dead Christ, by Pedro Berruguete, c.1450-1504