AIMS AND LEARNING OUTCOMES

3. Educational and Formational Aims

The educational and formational aims of the programme are described in terms of the people for whom it is designed, the pedagogy it embodies and the purpose it is intended to fulfil.

People

The aim of this programme is to equip Christian disciples and ministers to develop as competent and faithful reflective practitioners. To this end it provides an education in theology, ministry and mission in and for a variety of contexts.

1. Preparing people for professional ministry and mission within churches:
   Many students will be preparing for recognised lay and ordained ministries in the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist and United Reformed churches. The programmes serve institutions representing Anglican, Methodist, United Reformed, Baptist, Roman Catholic and Orthodox churches, as well as being open to students from other denominations.

2. Preparing people for lay ministry and mission in the world:
   The programme also serves those who wish to be more fully equipped for Christian life and service in the world, or simply more informed about the Christian faith. Within this category, some students will be preparing for ministry and mission among children and young people within and beyond ecclesial structures. Typically, students will be preparing for service in third sector and statutory organisations as well as in churches.

The programme aims to offer education that is accessible to students with a wide range of educational backgrounds and professional and personal circumstances: many will be mature students, many will be employed and therefore studying part time, many will be in active ministry, while still others will be pursuing the programme as full time residential students. The programme will therefore be available in a variety of modes of learning and teaching, including traditional full time residential learning, part time and part-residential learning, and distance learning supported by online and face to face engagement.

Pedagogy

The aim of this programme is to provide an education in theology, ministry and mission that encompasses the development of character and the nurturing of virtues and spirituality alongside the acquisition of knowledge and understanding, and the development of cognitive and practical skills. The programme aims to enable students to engage more deeply with themselves, others, the church, the world and God by offering learning and teaching that

1. form students in various disciplines, but bring those disciplines together to inform and enrich one another;
2. are constantly oriented towards the ministry and mission for which students are being prepared; and
3. by their modes of assessment and methods of learning and teaching enable students to develop as lifelong reflective learners.

Purpose

The purpose of the programme is to offer personal and professional preparation for a range of Christian ministries as well as to satisfy the aspirations of those students who undertake their studies to enhance, broaden and deepen their discipleship and ministry in other contexts.

From a professional point of view, the aim of the programme is to

1. offer pathways of study that contribute to meeting the range of professional and vocational criteria for the public ministries for which students are being prepared;
2. satisfy the aspirations of those students who undertake their studies to enhance, broaden and deepen their discipleship and ministry in other contexts; and
3. provide a firm basis from which to pursue further study in theology, ministry and mission at degree level.

From a personal perspective, the aim of this programme is to develop dispositions that are congruent with, and necessary for, Christian ministry and mission in the church and the world. The aims of the programme are that learners completing the programme will have become

1. open to the questions, insights and ongoing formation generated by attentive study of Scripture, and be willing to go on being transformed by them;
2. aware of the skills and disposition needed to go on reading themselves, the church and the world in the light of Christian doctrine, and to explore Christian doctrine more deeply in the light of experience and practice;
3. deeply aware that they are heirs to a long and complex history, aware of their place in that history alongside many others, and attuned to the work of the Holy Spirit in the church and the world through history and in the present;
4. passionate and prayerful advocates for the mission of God;
5. clearer about their vocation in the church and the world and therefore more determined to pursue personal and corporate lifelong learning as disciples of Christ;
6. open to the insights and challenges that emerge from serious engagement and cooperation with others, in and beyond the church.
4. Programme Learning Outcomes

Subject Specific Knowledge (SSK)

On successful completion of the programme, students will be able to:

1. engage in detail with selected texts of the Old and New Testaments in their cultural and religious contexts, analysing and using a range of approaches to interpretation, leading to an ability to articulate the texts’ significance for the church and world, and the questions to which they give rise;

2. research and give a detailed account of aspects of Christian doctrine, ethics and church history in a range of historical and contemporary contexts, analysing significant developments and concepts;

3. describe practices of Christian discipleship, including mission and worship, analysing theological, ecclesial and contextual understandings of such practices and of the nature of discipleship, in relation to specific contexts in and beyond the church.

Subject Specific Skills (SSS)

On successful completion of the programme, students will be able to:

1. apply different approaches to reading and interpreting biblical texts, communicating these with relevance and sensitivity to specialist and non-specialist audiences and contexts;

2. develop existing skills and acquire new competences and modes of inquiry in practices of Christian discipleship, mission and ministry, in the light of theological and, where appropriate, other disciplines, in new contexts;

3. draw on key aspects of relevant disciplines to begin developing a critical analysis of contemporary situations, reflecting on practice and experience, in the context of discipleship, mission and ministry, recognising the importance of knowing the limits of their knowledge.

Key Skills (KS)

On successful completion of the programme, students will be able to:

1. identify, gather, analyse and evaluate textual source materials for a range of purposes;

2. undertake a critical analysis of information and arguments, communicating these effectively to specialist and non-specialist audiences, showing critical self-awareness of their own beliefs, commitments and prejudices;

3. take responsibility for a task that involves independent inquiry; the management of time, resources and use of IT; meeting deadlines; evaluating the task and learning from it;

4. plan their own personal and professional development.
5. Learning and Teaching Methods

Teaching and learning methods will be used which take into account the range of learning styles in adult education. They will encourage learning that is student-centred and promotes reflective practice.

Visits enable students to encounter the subject matter in a way that provokes formational as well as cognitive learning that demands critical reflection on the subject area and its implications.

Placements and/or work-based learning ensures that students make habitual connections between knowledge, understanding, skills, professional practice and the reality of a specific context, under the supervision of an experienced practitioner.

Programmed online learning materials guide students through knowledge content, its wider framework and different approaches to its application.

Virtual discussion forums offer students the opportunity to articulate the knowledge and understanding they have acquired to others and to engage in informed debate.

7. Formative Assessment Policy

Formative assessment will be designed to support student learning by providing feedback to students on their learning during the course of all modules. It is also an opportunity, therefore, for the teacher to assess the effectiveness of his/her teaching and to make appropriate adjustments before the module is completed. Formative assessment will encourage students to place their learning in a wider context, with opportunities for self-assessment, peer and teacher feedback.

The specific mode of formative assessments varies from module to module. However, formative assessment will be used as an opportunity to strengthen particular aspects of students’ learning, namely:

- reflection on the development of personal dispositions / character in relation to the subject matter of the module. Some dispositions are outlined in the aims of the programme; more extensive descriptions form the background to the different pathways leading to professional ministries, as, for example, the churches’ learning outcomes for ordained ministry.
- integrating the learning of the module with that of another subject area, with a skill or competency, or with the context of a placement, the workplace or experience.

8. Assessment criteria

See Appendix 1.

The assessment criteria in Appendix 1 give an indication of the standards that will be used for marking written assignments and examinations at Level 5. However, additional marking criteria, accompanied by assessment guidelines, will be produced centrally for all TEIs to use for the range of assessment types listed in Section 6. These will give students clear guidance on how they can use the assessment task to demonstrate achievement of learning outcomes, and will enable teaching staff to have criteria that match the method of assessment.

The guidelines for each method of assessment will indicate

- The purpose of the assessment.
- The nature of the content of the assessment.
- The kinds of learning outcomes being assessed.
- Technicalities of presentation.
- Marking criteria for each level.

9. Contribution of assessment modes to final mark

The percentage composition of final marks in relation to forms of assessment will vary from one TEI to another, depending on pathways through the programme and the chosen methods of assessment. All TEIs will ensure a range of assessment types is offered. However, it is likely that many pathways will not include formal examinations as a mode of assessment that contributes to the final mark.

This programme may be studied full time over two years or part time over three or four years.

Each TEI will be responsible for developing pathways that ensure all students have the opportunity to achieve the programme learning outcomes.

See
- Appendix 2 for programme regulations
- Appendix 3 for a full list of modules
- Appendix 4 for a mapping of modules against programme learning outcomes

At Level 4 students are introduced to the core areas of subject specific knowledge, namely biblical studies, the Christian tradition and ministerial theology. The modules at this level offer a survey of subject specific knowledge to enable students to progress to level 5 within a clear framework for further study of theology, ministry and mission. Students are also introduced to the subject specific skill of relating their knowledge to experience and practice in the context of mission and ministry. This might takes place in direct relation to the student's practical formation, or in interdisciplinary modules with a professional and/or denominational focus, or in other ways. In addition, students are introduced to the subject specific skill of theological reflection.

At Level 5 students study the core subject areas at greater depth. The depth of study may take the form of a more focused area of subject specific knowledge and/or a more deeply contextual approach to an area of subject specific knowledge. Subject areas that were studied as interdisciplinary modules with a professional and/or denominational focus at level 4 will continue to be studied in this mode, embodying a 'spiral' approach that enables increasing depth of learning in these subject areas.

Students will continue to hone subject specific skills at a higher and more critical level, engaging with more complex situations related to their profession and/or practice either through a short-term placement, through work-based learning or through a sustained placement that lasts throughout the student’s programme of study.

In addition students will have the opportunity to study specialist subjects in areas such as inter faith engagement, environmental theology and education, or to specialise further in a subject area. Students may offer an independent study module and/or an integrative learning module that further enhances the breadth of study available to them.

At one or both levels, the programme offers students the opportunity to engage with their profession and/or practice either through short-term placements, through work-based learning or through a sustained placement that lasts throughout the student’s year or programme of study.
Coherence
The overarching coherence of the programme arises from its orientation towards ministry and mission, and the formation of students in practices of theological reflection that integrate disciplines with each other and with practice and experience. In many cases – although not exclusively so - practice is related to the professions for which students are preparing: ordained or lay ministries in the participating churches or Christian youth and children’s ministry more broadly.

Breadth
The programme is designed to ensure that students gain a balanced and broad foundation in the study of theology with an understanding of its implications in church and society as well as for Christian faith.

Depth
The programme aspires to engender a thirst for lifelong learning by enabling students to pursue particular areas of interest at level 5. An independent study module is available for students who wish to pursue a focused area of interest in greater depth.

International / global dimension
The study of theology, ministry and mission has an intrinsically international dimension that forms an inherent part of the curriculum. The contextual emphasis ensures reflection on the implications of theology, mission and ministry across cultures; some modules address this intercultural dimension explicitly. In addition, some students have the opportunity to take up placements abroad and some participating institutions have partnerships with overseas organisations and churches from which both students and staff benefit.
11. Learning outcomes at each level of study

LEVEL 4

Subject Specific Knowledge (SSK)

On successful completion of the level, students will be able to

1. discuss intelligently a range of biblical texts and various issues and methods related to their interpretation;
2. investigate and describe competently some major aspects of the Christian tradition and their development;
3. discuss knowledgeably some core aspects of Christian discipleship, such as worship, mission, spirituality or ethics, and the questions to which they give rise.

Subject Specific Skills (SSS)

On successful completion of the level, students will be able to:

1. identify the context and genre of selected biblical texts, and comment intelligently on their significance for the texts’ interpretation;
2. engage in practices of Christian discipleship, mission and ministry in the light of theological and, where appropriate, other disciplines;
3. draw on appropriate methodologies and various relevant disciplines, with guidance from an experienced practitioner, to reflect on experience and practice in the context of discipleship, mission and ministry, and communicate this accurately and reliably in a range of contexts.

Key Skills (KS)

On successful completion of the level, students will be able to:

1. identify, gather and evaluate source materials for a specific purpose;
2. evaluate the appropriateness of different approaches, communicating their findings sensitively and respectfully, showing self-awareness about their own beliefs, commitments and prejudices;
3. carry out a guided task that involves: independent inquiry, management of time and resources; using IT; meeting deadlines; evaluating the task and learning from it;
4. recognise key issues in their own personal and professional development.
LEVEL 5

Subject Specific Knowledge (SSK)

On successful completion of the programme, students will be able to:

1. engage in detail with selected texts of the Old and New Testaments in their cultural and religious contexts, analysing and using a range of approaches to interpretation, leading to an ability to articulate the texts’ significance for the church and world and of the questions to which they give rise;

2. research and give a detailed account of aspects of Christian doctrine, ethics and church history in a range of historical and contemporary contexts, analysing significant developments and concepts;

3. describe practices of Christian discipleship, including mission and worship, analysing theological, ecclesial and contextual understandings of such practices and of the nature of discipleship, in relation to specific contexts in and beyond the church.

Subject Specific Skills (SSS)

On successful completion of the programme, students will be able to:

1. apply different approaches to reading and interpreting biblical texts, communicating these with relevance and sensitivity to specialist and non-specialist audiences and contexts;

2. develop existing skills and acquire new competences and modes of inquiry in practices of Christian discipleship, mission and ministry, in the light of theological and, where appropriate, other disciplines, in new contexts;

3. draw on key aspects of relevant disciplines to begin developing a critical analysis of contemporary situations, reflecting on practice and experience, in the context of discipleship, mission and ministry, recognising the importance of knowing the limits of their knowledge.

Key Skills (KS)

On successful completion of the programme, students will be able to:

1. identify, gather, analyse and evaluate textual source materials for a range of purposes;

2. undertake a critical analysis of information and arguments, communicating these effectively to specialist and non-specialist audiences, showing critical self-awareness of their own beliefs, commitments and prejudices;

3. take responsibility for a task that involves independent inquiry; the management of time, resources and use of IT; meeting deadlines; evaluating the task and learning from it;

4. plan their own personal and professional development.
12. Indicate which modules are pre- / co-requisites within the programme

In order to achieve the flexibility required by TEIs to construct their own pathways through the programme, very few co-requisites have been stipulated centrally. Instead, these co-requisites will be defined and decided by each TEI in relation to their individual pathways and will take the form of supplementary regulations that will be approved as part of the TEI validation process.

See Appendix 5 for details of pre- and co-requisites as well as excluded combinations.

13. Typical Admissions Requirements

Entry to this programme is flexible, depending on the student’s experience, employment and education. In general, applicants – especially those with little or no employment history – are likely to have at least two A-levels or equivalent. However, for mature students, relevant work experience may be considered in lieu of formal academic qualifications. Applicants will need to demonstrate their potential to benefit from a Diploma (HE) in Theology, Ministry and Mission.

In general, up to a maximum of 80 credits of accredited prior learning may be granted to students who have evidence of, or can demonstrate learning that fulfills the relevant learning outcomes of the Diploma programme (by completing a portfolio of work, for example).

Students who have successfully completed the Diploma are eligible to apply to continue to the BA(Hons) in Theology, Ministry and Mission programme.

Students for whom English is their second language should have achieved a score of 6.5 in an IELTS examination, or equivalent.

THE PROCESS OF PROGRAMME DESIGN

14. Relation of the programme to the QAA Theology and Religious Studies benchmark statement

The TRS benchmark statement acknowledges the range of institutional contexts in which the study of theology is offered, including the professional formation of ministers and other professional programmes. The statement describes and affirms the range of modes of learning in this subject, including full time residential programmes, distance-learning programmes and a range of part time and part-residential programmes. Clearly, the range of institutions participating in delivering the Diploma (HE) in Theology, Ministry and Mission falls within this affirmed diversity of provision.

Despite this diversity, the statement suggests that ‘students should be expected to be confronted with some of the questions raised by this general intellectual history [of TRS as a subject] and to consider viewpoints other than their own and other than any declared stance of the institution where they are studying. Critical dialogue is essential to the subject as studied at HE level.’ This programme responds to this by including the study of church history (including the history of mission), Christian doctrine, apologetics and other faiths, and by insisting on critical theological reflection as a core skill that students must develop throughout their studies.

The benchmark statement suggests that all programmes in TRS should touch upon most of the following:

- A broadly based core together with the wider context required […], and specialised study in depth of some aspects of the discipline […]
- One or more religions […]
- The reading, analysis and interpretation of texts, sometimes in the original languages […]
- Engagement with some of the major religious thinkers […]
- The application of a variety of critical methods of study […]
- The history of the particular discipline(s) covered by the programme, including the major theories, movements and thinkers […]
- Ethics, morality, and values […]

All of these are addressed in this programme, either through its structure (starting with broad foundations at level 4 and offering depth and specialization at higher levels) or the range of modules offered in biblical studies, history, doctrine, ethics and inter faith engagement.

In addition the statement proposes a number of qualities of mind that should be developed as part of TRS study:

- The ability to understand how people have thought and acted in contexts other than the student’s own […]
- The ability to read and use texts both critically and empathetically […]
- The appreciation of complexity […]
- Sensitivity to the problems of religious language and experience […]
- Appreciation of the interconnectedness and internal tensions within a system of beliefs and practices […]
- Basic critical and analytical skills […]
- The ability to employ a variety of methods of study […]
- The capacity to give a clear and accurate account of a subject […]

These attributes can be found in the subject specific and key skills for the programme, and many are addressed particularly effectively through the emphasis on a contextual approach that demands the skills and habit of critical theological reflection.

Among the teaching methods described within the statement there is a clear affirmation of practical placements (akin to those undertaking training for the caring professions), which form an important component of this programme.

Progression is described as requiring ‘the acquisition of greater facility and competence, greater depth or sharpness of focus and deepening intellectual maturity.’ This is congruent with the progression described in this programme’s aims and learning outcomes.

Finally, the learning outcomes of this programme have drawn from, and are congruent with, the knowledge and understanding, discipline-specific and intellectual skills and the generic (transferable) skills described in the TRS statement.
15. Relation of the programme to the University’s Qualification Descriptors and the QAA Framework for Higher Education Qualifications

The programme learning outcomes and regulations are consistent with Durham University’s Qualification Descriptors, which, in turn, are consistent with the QAA’s Framework for HE Qualifications.

16. How the programme links research and teaching

Teaching and learning in the theological education institutions takes place among relatively small cohorts of students. Small class size, combined with the accessibility of teaching staff for informal engagement, enables a research-imbued culture to flourish.

Research-led: Teaching and learning takes place in an environment where teaching staff are research-active either through academic inquiry or professional practice. All teaching and learning, therefore, draws upon the processes, as well as the findings, of the specialist and active interests of teaching staff from the very beginning of the learning process, giving the experience of learning an immediacy and relevance that is energising and motivating.

Research-oriented: Students are inducted into the process of inquiry in the field of theology at level 4, progressing to understanding and applying sophisticated methods of research and theological inquiry by the time they reach levels 6 and 7. For the many mature students on the programme, this will involve building on the skills and aptitudes which they bring from their educational and professional backgrounds (see page 3). The methodologies of theological reflection are introduced at the start of the programmes and all modules encourage application of this method of inquiry in formal and informal ways. Students are encouraged to challenge and question knowledge and praxis, thereby developing discerning intellectual independence that equips them for lifelong learning and discovery.

Research-based: the programme’s strong emphasis on contextual learning and critical theological reflection leads to a research ethos to the learning process that blurs the roles of teacher and student as both explore the relationship between theory, practice and experience together. Methods of teaching, learning and assessment focus on the process of knowledge generation and the critical interrogation of research findings, creating an environment in which both students and teachers are learners.

Research-informed: a key driving force in the design of this programme has been the desire to embody a pedagogy that better serves its constituency and which shapes HE pedagogy more widely. To this end the collaboration between the partner institutions and Durham University will promote and sustain active engagement and research into the pedagogy of ministerial theology. Students will be encouraged to contribute to this process by means of active engagement in evaluating and discussing their pedagogical experience.
17. How the programme is influenced by interdisciplinary links, requirements of professional bodies and other relevant standards and principles

This programme represents a significant national development in the education of lay and ordained ministers for the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist and United Reformed churches. In order to ensure that the programme fulfills the churches’ professional requirements for public ministries as well as the aspirations of the participating TEIs, theological educators and practitioners have been extensively and intensively engaged in a collaborative approach to its design. Over a period of fifteen months TEI staff and church representatives have gathered in three conferences, each involving over 100 participants. In addition, colleagues have gathered in smaller groups in over 25 workshops around the country. This level of participation has ensured that the programme meets the requirements of both the churches served by the TEIs as well as the TEIs themselves, in their capacity as independent theological education institutions. The result is a programme that offers a significant measure of commonality, coherence and parity, while embracing the welcome diversity of a wide range of institutions around the country. In addition, the churches’ close involvement in the process ensures that the programme is fit for purpose in relation to preparing leaders for the ministry and mission of the church.

Students who are sponsored by participating churches for recognised ministries must fulfill learning outcomes stipulated by the churches in addition to the programme learning outcomes. In the case of the Church of England, for example, the learning outcomes are stipulated and monitored by the Ministry Division of the Archbishop’s Council. This means that students who have successfully completed the programme are nevertheless subject to the church’s authority in relation to their preparedness for the ministry for which they entered training.

STUDENT SUPPORT

18. Arrangements for academic support of students

The exact form in which students will be supported varies from one participating institution to the other. However, each institution has

- a staff member in a ‘director of studies’ role who is able to advise students on module choices (where relevant) and who will track student progress.
- tutors who provide pastoral and welfare support to students and monitor academic progress
- teaching staff who offer academic support

There is a programme handbook for all participating institutions that sets out the details of this programme and its regulations and procedures. In addition each institution provides a handbook that sets out the local regulations, practicalities and ethos within which the programme is delivered.

Students receive both a mark and written feedback on all summative assessments. Feedback on formative assessments will vary depending on the nature of the assessment, but could involve written or oral feedback.
19. Policies relating to admission of particular groups of students and support for them

Individual institutions have policies relating to admissions and disability support. Teaching staff at the institutions are supported by Durham University Service for Students with Disabilities in relation to guidance and information. All institutions have staff with particular responsibility for supporting students with study skills.

OTHER ISSUES

20. Field trips, placement and related opportunities

Reflective involvement with the realities of the church and the world are a hallmark of teaching and learning within this programme that encourages a continuous and critical conversation between knowledge and experience. The opportunity to engage in visits and placements is therefore an important feature of this programme. The modes of engagement include:

- Field visits as part of a specific module of study, with which the whole class is expected to engage.
- Extended visits, including overseas visits, for individual students or groups of students, which comprise a placement, or are extracurricular or form part of a specific module.
- Placements arranged in negotiation with the institution as an integral part of the student’s programme. This could be an attachment to a church or parish throughout the student’s programme of study, or a short-term placement in a church or other organisation, such as a hospital, a third sector organisation, a military institution, a school or another educational establishment. In all of these placements, a named person would act as a supervisor and would liaise with a staff member at the sending institution to ensure that the placement has the capacity to offer the student the opportunity to achieve specified learning outcomes.
- Work based learning is also available to part time students for whom this is an appropriate mode of learning. Most commonly this is likely to be a student who is employed (voluntarily or in a remunerated capacity) in a church or church-related context.

21. Other matters relating to the students’ learning experience including those that enhance students’ development but are not assessed

Students undertaking the programme will be engaged in communities of prayer and worship, whether within the training institution, a local church or another form of intentional faith community. Underpinning the programme is a commitment to the communal, collaborative and contextual nature of learning: learners are confronted with the provisionality of human articulations of truth when others’ interpretation of it differs from their own. Institutions will encourage learners to be inspired by such experiences, seeing them as prompts to become lifelong learners who appreciate uncertainty, ambiguity and the limits of knowledge.
This communal dimension is an important part of developing students in a more holistic sense, as well as offering significant opportunities for genuine collaborative learning and shared experience upon which to reflect theologically, often in a corporate setting.
QUALITY MANAGEMENT AND ENHANCEMENT

22. Management structure of the programme

Each participating institution has a board of studies (‘management committee’) which has overall responsibility for the programme. A staff member acts as a programme leader who is responsible for the day to day running of the programme. A University Liaison Officer will support the institution and liaise between the institution and Durham University.

The individual institutions’ boards of studies will report to and liaise with the overarching Management Board for the Common Awards.

23. Monitoring of the quality of the programme, including opportunities for students to express their views

Durham University will appoint external examiners for each participating institution which will operate its own Examination Board for the programme. The overarching Management Board of the Common Awards Partnership will consider the procedures and outcomes of all participating institutions’ Examination Boards annually.

Each institution will have a procedure for enabling student feedback at both module and programme level. In addition there will be a staff-student consultative committee at each institution. Student feedback will be considered and acted upon at the board of studies.

The Annual Review process will report on admissions, learning, teaching and assessment, student progression and achievement, external examiner feedback, student support and guidance, student feedback results, resources, quality management and enhancement.

24. Staff development issues relating to the programmes

Core teaching staff in participating institutions will be able to access a range of staff development opportunities. Many are lay or ordained ministers of churches which offer their own professional development programmes. In addition, TEIs will ensure annual and peer reviews for staff which will have a professional development focus. The Validation Plus partnership with Durham will offer professional development opportunities through national staff conferences that will foster research in ministerial and theological education and a nationwide platform for professional engagement.
